

1. Prepare a new product development plan for a "Robot Vacuum Cleaner" considering Rapid Product Development strategies and competition in the market.

The new product development plan should include the customer needs statement (especially the expectations that the existing products in the market do not satisfy), product attributes and specifications, estimated-approximate product financial, make or buy analyses, marketing and competition targets, development schedule for a period of 12 months, production and procurement processes, and resource requirements.

2. Prepare a new product development plan for a "Drone" considering Rapid Product Development strategies and competition in the market.

The new product development plan should include the customer needs statement (especially the expectations that the existing products in the market do not satisfy), product attributes and specifications, estimated-approximate product financial, make or buy analyses, marketing and competition targets, development schedule for a period of 12 months, production and procurement processes, and resource requirements.

3. Prepare a new product development plan for a "Hoverboard" considering Rapid Product Development strategies and competition in the market.

The new product development plan should include the customer needs statement (especially the expectations that the existing products in the market do not satisfy), product attributes and specifications, estimated-approximate product financial, make or buy analyses, marketing and competition targets, development schedule for a period of 12 months, production and procurement processes, and resource requirements.

4. Prepare a new product development plan for a "Microwave Oven" considering Rapid Product Development strategies and competition in the market.

The new product development plan should include the customer needs statement (especially the expectations that the existing products in the market do not satisfy), product attributes and specifications, estimated-approximate product financial, make or buy analyses, marketing and competition targets, development schedule for a period of 9 months, production and procurement processes, and resource requirements.

5. Prepare a new product development plan for a "Bluetooth Speaker" considering Rapid Product Development strategies and competition in the market.

The new product development plan should include the customer needs statement (especially the expectations that the existing products in the market do not satisfy), product attributes and specifications, estimated-approximate product financial, make or buy analyses, marketing and competition targets, development schedule for a period of 9 months, production and procurement processes, and resource requirements.

6. Prepare a new product development plan for a "Smart Watch" considering Rapid Product Development strategies and competition in the market.

The new product development plan should include the customer needs statement (especially the expectations that the existing products in the market do not satisfy), product attributes and specifications, estimated-approximate product financial, make or buy analyses, marketing and competition targets, development schedule for a period of 12 months, production and procurement processes, and resource requirements.

7. Prepare a new product development plan for a "Hair Clipper" considering Rapid Product Development strategies and competition in the market.

The new product development plan should include the customer needs statement (especially the expectations that the existing products in the market do not satisfy), product attributes and specifications, estimated-approximate product financial, make or buy analyses, marketing and competition targets, development schedule for a period of 9 months, production and procurement processes, and resource requirements.

8. Prepare a new product development plan for a "Fitness Treadmill" considering Rapid Product Development strategies and competition in the market.

The new product development plan should include the customer needs statement (especially the expectations that the existing products in the market do not satisfy), product attributes and specifications, estimated-approximate product financial, make or buy analyses, marketing and competition targets, development schedule for a period of 9 months, production and procurement processes, and resource requirements.

9. Prepare a new product development plan for a "Electric Scooter" considering Rapid Product Development strategies and competition in the market.

The new product development plan should include the customer needs statement (especially the expectations that the existing products in the market do not satisfy), product attributes and specifications, estimated-approximate product financial, make or buy analyses, marketing and competition targets, development schedule for a period of 12 months, production and procurement processes, and resource requirements.

10. Prepare a new product development plan for a "Coffee Maker with Grinder" considering Rapid Product Development strategies and competition in the market.

The new product development plan should include the customer needs statement (especially the expectations that the existing products in the market do not satisfy), product attributes and specifications, estimated-approximate product financial, make or buy analyses, marketing and competition targets, development schedule for a period of 9 months, production and procurement processes, and resource requirements.

